DONALD TRUMP: Right to Keep and Bear Arms

September 19, 2015 – Donald Trump posted on his webpage his position on the Right to Keep and Bear Arms. He named his position: "PROTECTING OUR SECOND AMENDMENT RIGHTS WILL MAKE AMERICA GREAT AGAIN." One of the planks of his Right to bear arms platform says:

"Several years ago there was a tremendous program in Richmond, Virginia called Project Exile. It said that if a violent felon uses a gun to commit a crime, you will be prosecuted in federal court and go to prison for five years – no parole or early release."

He also states, "I don't see the national background checks as part of the function of the federal government under the Second Amendment. Again, if we dealt justly with violent criminals who used guns against others, we wouldn't need a prison system and we wouldn't need a background check. They would face the death penalty in many cases."

The American Resistance Party agrees that any violent criminal that uses a gun in the commission of a crime would be sentenced an extra 5 years on top of any the penalty for the crime that they committed. The death penalty would be the automatic sentence for any death resulting in the use of a gun or other weapon while committing a crime. The convicted criminal would also be forced to pay restitution by hard labor while waiting for any appeals and/or execution to pay restitution to any victims for any felonies committed.
