I too would be happy accept Mr. Levin's idiotic challenge. However, it would be unfair to him. He has rarely ever had to face someone that is really versed in the topic of eligibility and the Art II question. Sooooooooooooooooooooooooooooo....

Mr. Levin, I accept your challenge to discuss (on the airwaves) the ENTIRE LIBRARY OF FACTS regarding the ineligibility of Chester Arthur, Barry Soetoro (aka BHO), Mitt Romney, George Romney, Rafael Edward Cruz (aka Ted), Marco Rubio, Rick Santorum, Bobby Jindal, John McCain, and any other ineligible candidate you wish to pop into the discussion.

Let me know what date and what time!

On January 6, 2016 Mark Levin said the following on air:

"I'm prepared to debate any so-called legal scholar, professor, serious commentator or candidate on this particular issue [Cruz eligibility to be POTUS] on the air. More than happy to do it. You see it's not just the matter of just an opinion. You have to understand the Constitution, have to understand the nature of construction, you have to understand a little bit of American history. So that makes things complicated for liberals and knee-jerkers. But I'm more than happy to debate this issue with anybody who says that an American citizen born of an American citizen mother wherever that citizen is born is not eligible as a natural citizen as a naturalized citizen to run for POTUS. There is absolutely no authority for that. I'm putting out a challenge right now on this program. I am defending the Constitution. I am defending the rule of law. I am defending against all comers!"

Dear Mr. Sementa,

I have been asked by several constitutional scholars to reach out to you to accept Mr. Levin's challenge re: the constitutional eligibility of Ted Cruz. Please contact me so that we can discuss the details and make arrangements at your earliest convenience. This is an issue of vital importance and a public debate on this issue is obviously in the best interest of the American electorate. Obviously Mark agrees or he would not have made such a generous offer. The fact that Mark is more than happy to accept our challenge makes us very happy too as we would like this issue put to bed once and for all.

Let's get this done!

Respectfully - Gary Wilmott

Edward C Noonan, National Committee Chairman of the American Resistance Party declares that Mr. Mark Levin has little knowledge of the U.S. Constitution. Levin is declaring that any foreign born person, or any person that has an "alien" parent can be considered a NATURAL BORN CITIZEN (NBC) of the United States of America. This is HOGWASH! A NBC must be born IN COUNTRY and of two U.S. citizens. PERIOD!
