FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE ACTION ALERT

SOETORO (AKA BHO)
Facing Trump Prosecution

1/27/16 – EDWARD C NOONAN, Former 2012 & 2016 Presidential Candidate alert:

conservativedailypost.com posted an article on Jan 26, 2017 written by Allison Hillman. It was titled, “BREAKING: OBAMA (Soetoro) INVOLVED IN OFF-HAND ATTEMPT TO FRAUD ELECTION, NOW FACING TRUMP PROSECUTION.” (link: Liberal Corruption)

It wasn't the Russians!

We have spent the past 2 months hearing about how Russians were responsible for hacking the election process in order to let Trump win. Anyone paying attention knows this is a ridiculous claim.

It was one more ploy in the left's arsenal to discredit Trump. This one, Obama (Soetoro) took way too far, issuing sanctions against Russia. He actually punished them for something they never did! Fortunately Putin did not respond aggressively.

Democrats did not want to accept a Trump win, but could they have tampered with the election to try and prevent it? The answer is not only yes they could have, but yes they did. Or maybe there was more sinister motive, perhaps for revenge?

Georgia Secretary of State Brian Kemp, who oversees the voting systems, is a long-time vocal critic of Obama (Soetoro) and Jeh Johnson. He spoke out against their attempt to designate local and state election machinery as part of federal “critical infrastructure.”

John Roth, the Inspector General of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), began an investigation into former DHS Secretary Jeh Johnson and his use of DHS systems on election night.

Representatives Jason Chaffetz and Jody Hice co-signed a letter to Roth, asking him to open the investigation.

Chaffetz, who also is the chairman of the powerful House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform, told Roth, “If these allegations are true, they implicate state sovereignty laws and various other constitutional issues, as well as federal and state criminal laws.”

Kemp also wrote to then President-elect Donald Trump, telling him “I respectfully write today to request that you task your new Secretary of Homeland Security with investigating the failed cyberattacks against the Georgia Secretary of State’s network firewall.”

Johnson could have attempted the hack into the Georgia state voting system in order to influence the outcome of the election in that state. Johnson never would have done this alone. Obama (Soetoro) would have ordered and possibly even overseen the operations.

In a letter to Brian Kemp, Roth outlined the scope of the investigation; “a series of ten alleged scanning events of the Georgia Secretary of State’s network that may have originated from DHS-affiliated IP addresses.”

The “scans” are designed to test security weaknesses in a network. It’s the electronic equivalent of “rattling doorknobs” to see if they’re unlocked. Or, to send a message to a recipient.

Georgia had firewall systems in place that stopped all 10 of the attacks before they could do any damage. Georgian IT specialists were able to trace the 10 scans back to a DHS IP address.

Jeh Johnson, a puppet on a string

Title 18 of the federal code makes it a federal crime to “having knowingly accessed a computer without authorization” and to damage or impair the integrity or availability of data, a program, a system, or information. If convicted, Obama (Soetoro) and Johnson could be fined and receive up to 20 years for each offense.

The timing is convenient. Four of the 10 attempts against the Georgia network occurred as Kemp was about to talk to DHS officials about the attacks, or coincided with his public testimony about his opposition to the critical infrastructure designation.

Kemp stated, “It’s certainly concerning about the dates. That’s a pretty easy dot to connect. Certainly from a political perspective it makes a lot of sense to ask that question.

The attacks against the network began on February 2. The last effort to penetrate the Georgia system, which Kemp called a “large attack,” occurred November 15th, a week after the election but before the state certified its results.

Kemp said he hopes the Inspector General gets to the bottom of the attacks and determines if there is a possibility the hacks were timed to intimidate him.

Kemp is simply grateful the investigation has finally begun, “We’re certainly excited and glad that we’re just going to get our questions answered. That’s all we’ve been asking for and we think we deserve to know what was going on. The explanation they (DHS) have been giving us leaves a lot of holes unanswered.”

Apparently Johnson has given several explanations for the attempted intrusion. One was that an unnamed contractor hit the site “as part of his normal job duties” to confirm professional licenses.

Kemp said the DHS answers have continued to change over time; “First they said it was an individual in Corpus Christi Texas who worked for border patrol that had a bug in his Microsoft software that was causing it. And then they moved off of that, and said that it was somebody in Georgia at FLETCO down in Glynn County on the coast of Georgia. We’ve never been given the name of the employee. We haven’t been able to talk to them. We expect OIG would want to talk to that employee.”

The investigation could take some time since so many minor players seem to be involved. No doubt that Obama (Soetoro) was in charge but he had to have people doing the actual dirty work. We can only hope it will all come out in the investigation.

The American Resistance Party is puzzled that there is no mention here in this article relating to the criminal election fraud of George Soros.

charismanews.com has quoted damaging charges against Soros:

“He (Soros) may have more insider knowledge than he was letting on in the interview, though. According to WikiLeaks—during “Cablegate,” not the current release of Podesta Emails—Soros is linked directly to Smartmatic, the company that has provided voting machines to 16 states—the same kind of machines that were suspected of being used to rig the 2004 Venezuelan presidential election on Hugo Chavez’s behalf.”

And of course, Soetoro (aka BHO) and his boss Soros, are both illegal aliens!
