

American Resistance Party

How long will you wear the chains of your Masters?

Contact: Edward C. Noonan
Tel: 530-777-3474
Email: ednoonan7@gmail.com
Email: americanresistanceparty@mail.com
<http://www.americanresistanceparty.org>

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE ACTION ALERT

THE FACEBOOK RAT-BASTARDS Have Censored Me!

07/06/19 – EDWARD C NOONAN, Former 2012 & 2016 Presidential Candidate alert:

I got censored by Facebook! (7/5/19) ... Here is the original post of my focus:

Harold Kruger shared a post to the group: (Yuba Sutter & Marysville) Traffic Accidents & Fire, Crimes Only. 19 hrs · 🌐

Harold Kruger shared a link to the group: 530 Life. 20 hrs

SACBEE.COM
Immigrant detainees begin hunger strike in Yuba County jail for improved conditions

👍👎👤 129 250 Comments 18 Shares

👍 Like 💬 Comment ➦ Share

My Question:

HAVE YOU BEEN CENSORED?

On Wednesday, the White House launched a new tool for people to use if they feel they've been wrongly censored, banned, or suspended on social media platforms like Facebook and Twitter.

“Too many Americans have seen their accounts suspended, banned, or fraudulently reported for unclear ‘violations’ of user policies,” the site reads. “No matter your views, if you suspect political bias caused such an action to be taken against you, share your story with President Trump.”

NOTE: Trump has cancelled this “New Tool” and it no longer exists!

THE SACBEE STORY:

Immigrant detainees begin hunger strike in Yuba County jail for improved conditions

<https://www.sacbee.com/news/local/article232261867.html>

BY ELLIOT WAILOO

JULY 04, 2019 02:35 PM, UPDATED JULY 04, 2019 05:38 PM

At least 16 people detained by federal immigration authorities in the Yuba County jail have refused food for four days in the facility's third hunger strike in 10 months.

The immigration detainees, who are mixed in with other inmates at the Marysville jail, are demanding newer facilities, better medical attention, and follow-through on promises to improve conditions. And they say they don't want to be treated as "criminals" like the other inmates in the jail.

Immigration and Customs Enforcement is currently detaining nearly 200 people in the facility, said Leslie Carbah, a spokeswoman for the Yuba County Sheriff's Department.

On Wednesday morning, activists from the Sacramento Immigration Coalition and other advocacy groups rallied outside the jail-courthouse complex in support of the strikers. They spoke in both English and Spanish and were critical of the jail's and ICE's policies toward the detainees. Joe Engle, a representative from the Sacramento Immigration Coalition, read a statement from an unnamed detainee inside the jail who said conditions were substandard.

"I've been in Yuba County jail for 12 months now. When I arrived, the living conditions were inhumane and they still are," the detainee wrote. "There are cells that have no water, the lights are not working ... we are being treated not as ICE [detainees], but as criminals."

Other complaints included cockroach-infested rooms and insufficient time out of cells.

Officially, a hunger strike begins when detainees have refused food for 72 hours, or nine meals, according to Carbah. However, they often still eat commissary food — small snacks like chips or ramen that they must pay for. But ICE's guidelines for dealing with hunger strikes instruct facility administrators to remove all commissary or vending machine food from the striker's room.

Rhonda Rios Kravitz, an advocate with the Sacramento Immigration Coalition, says this happened during the last strike in February. She also said that as of Wednesday late afternoon, strikers were moved to H pod, which she said is the oldest and dirtiest part of the building, which at least one Yuba County grand jury report called a "dungeon." Jail officials could not be reached Thursday for comment.

ICE detainees make up about half of the jail's residents. As of 2014, 220 of 433 total beds in the facility belong to ICE, which pays the jail $97.39 per day for each detainee. With an average detainee population hovering between 170 and 190, the operation brings in almost $6.5 million a year for the jail.

Paul Prince, a spokesperson for ICE in Northern California, said that 16 of the immigration detainees are participating in the hunger strike. By late Wednesday afternoon, Rios Kravitz said the number was down to 14.

The last hunger strike at the facility happened in February 2019, and ended after a few concessions were made by the jail. According to Carbah, the detainees were given their own exercise yard space separate from criminal inmates. Detainees and criminal inmates are currently housed in the same jail, but while inmates wear orange, detainees wear red.

The Yuba County Jail Facility has been open since the mid-'90s and has consistently earned "deficiencies," or failures to meet ICE standards in areas like access to legal materials, use of force, and sexual abuse and assault prevention and intervention. In 2014, for example, the review commission found 14 deficiencies in the facility management.

Yuba County has been awarded $20 million by the state to build new adult correctional facilities, but construction has not started yet.

In a speech at the Wednesday event, Rios Kravitz demanded immediate changes to the system, including opening up the facility for inspections by an outside ombudsman and making public all records of use of force, solitary confinement, hunger strikes and suicide attempts.

"ICE has made it excessively difficult as to access how it and its contractors treat the people in its custody," she said.

For detainees, little progress has been made on their previous demands. Carbah, the county sheriff's spokeswoman, said that potential changes are limited by a consent decree, or a legal settlement between the jail and its inmates, which has been in effect since 1979.

"We have started this third hunger strike because we are tired of empty promises," said the unnamed detainee in the statement. "We understand that we might not see any of these changes happen while we are here, but we're willing to make this sacrifice to have our voices be heard and to make a dent in the system that is crooked."

End of Sacramento Bee article... (This is the full article I was commenting on!)

THIS IS MY FACEBOOK-RESPONSE TO THE SACRAMENTO BEE ARTICLE:

DOES ANYONE REALLY BELIEVE QUOTING THE LAW IS HATE SPEECH?

Well, the FACEBOOK computer does!

I wrote this comment and exactly 12 minutes after I posted it, the Facebook computer deemed it to be something “against community standards!”

My quoting immigration law was unacceptable to Facebook!

I have reviewed this post of mine and have discovered “HOW” the FACEBOOK COMPUTER could have decided that my post was “against community standards!” See their statement below:

If you will review a portion of the post to the left, you will see the first words of my comment...

It is the word “ILLEGAL ALIENS” ... The rat-bastards at FACEBOOK have decreed that anyone using the word “illegal” must be referring to “illegal aliens”. And therefore, any reference to “illegals” or “illegal aliens” are “hateful” to all groups of mistreated illegals or illegal aliens! This proves that FACEBOOK is pro-illegals and pro-illegal alien and AGAINST U.S. citizens!

###

Permission to reprint in whole or in part is gladly granted, provided full credit is given.